

Wachusett Regional High School Annual/
371.8 MOU 1964 441

Wachusett Reg. H.S. Library

Dedication

The Class of 1964 does proudly dedicate its Yearbook to a woman who, as a teacher, counselor, and friend has devoted much of her career to fashioning our student community. It is through her unselfish efforts that understanding and co-operation between our student body and administration have been furthered.

For your fine leadership and warm sincerity we, the Class of 1964, wish to express our love and appreciation by dedicating our book to you, Mrs. Hamilton.

MRS. HELEN M. HAMILTON

"A perfect woman, nobly plann'd
To warn, to comfort, and command
And yet a spirit still, and bright
With something of angelic light"

Wordsworth

MR. NEAL T. SKILLINGS
Principal

To the Members of the Class of 1964:

By the time you receive this yearbook you will very nearly have completed your high school career here at Wachusett. I sincerely hope it has been a satisfying and profitable one. You are graduating from one of the finest high schools in this, or any other, state. If you have used your time here to good advantage, you should have no fear of the future regardless of what you are planning to do. I certainly hope every one of you will have a most successful career.

Best wishes to all of you,

Neal T. Skillings

MRS. PEARL SMITH

MRS. MARIANE CAREY

MRS. ELIZABETH CHANDLER

To the Class of 1964:

I trust that the four years you spent at the Wachusett Regional High School have been both pleasant and profitable.

You have reached a crucial stage of your life, where you must contemplate the next step to meet the challenges of a rapidly developing technological world. To take your rightful place in such a world, you should seriously plan to further your formal education. The teachers and your parents have strived diligently to arouse within you an educational spark of curiosity. Let no obstacle become insurmountable as you move toward your goal in life.

May God's blessings follow you all the days of your life.

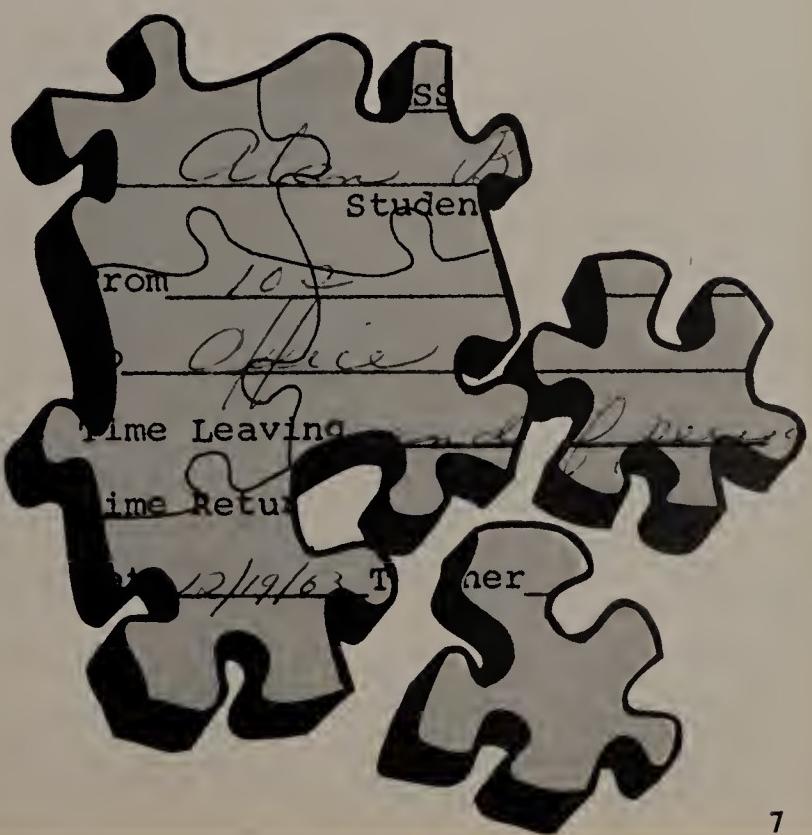

Sincerely yours,

Martin F. White

DR. CHARLES L. BOWLBY
Superintendent of Schools

Two thousand five hundred years ago, Confucius gave his students some advice which is just as pertinent today as it was then, I recommend his wisdom to the Class of 1964 and hope, when the time comes; that you will choose as did Robert Frost, the path that will 'make all the difference.'

It matters not what you learn; but when you once learn a thing, you must never give it up until you have mastered it. It matters not what you inquire into; but when you inquire into a thing, you must never give it up until you have thoroughly understood it. It matters not what you try to think out; but when you once try to think out a thing, you must never give it up until you have gotten what you want. It matters not what you try to carry out; but when you once try to carry out a thing, you must never give it up until you have done it thoroughly and well.

THE HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1964

Throughout history certain men and groups of men have distinguished themselves as immortal. Socrates and his intellectuals with their culture, Caesar and his armies with their power, and John Fitzgerald Kennedy and his New-Frontiersmen with their courage have set aside a place for themselves in the history of mankind.

Unlike other graduating classes, we, the class of 1964, understand our rightful place in history. Although we certainly cannot compare ourselves or our class with men or groups of men who have earned their rightful title of immortal, we do feel proud of our record at Wachusett.

In the last four years ~~the class of '64 has taken an active part in school activities, yet as a class we have not ignored our studies. With a class average of 80%~~ we have shown that it is possible to pay attention to both.

In our class project, the senior play, we proved to ourselves and others that we could well work together; that we were capable of attempting something more worthwhile than a domestic comedy. As R. E. Krieger stated in his review:

Comes the millennium. Finally a high school drama group has dared to buck the trend and do something besides the usual productions one has come to expect from these organizations . . . The audience was immersed in the play and its motion.

As have all other classes we have produced our scholars, our athletes, our speakers, our clowns, our beauties, and our leaders. We, too, have sprinkled leaders and members to club and societies yet:

More than being the greatest class ever to graduate from a good school, we have simply been a good class to have graduated from the greatest of schools.

THE STORY OF THE PLAY*

The play is laid on an island somewhere on our planet, and on this island is the central office of the factory of Rossum's Universal Robots. When the play opens, a few decades beyond the present day, the factory had turned out already, following a secret formula, hundreds of thousands of manufactured workmen, living automats, without souls, desires or feelings. They are high-powered laborers, good for nothing but work.

When Helena Glory, president of the Humanitarian League, comes to ascertain what can be done to improve the condition of those over-specialized creatures, Harry Domin, the general manager of the factory, captures her heart and hand in the speediest courting on record.

The last two acts take place ten years later. Due to the desire of Helena, to have the Robots more like human beings, Dr. Gall, the head of the physiological and experimental departments, has secretly changed the formula, partially humanizing a few hundred Robots. A world revolt of Robots is under way.

Then comes the epilogue, in which Alquist, the company's builder, is not only the only human being on the island, but also the only one left on earth. The Robots have destroyed the rest of mankind. They spared his life because he was a worker. And he is spending his days unceasingly endeavoring to discover and reconstruct the lost formula.

The Robots are doomed. They saved the wrong man. They should have spared the company's physicist. The Robots know that their bodies will wear out in time and there will be no new multitudes of Robots to replace them. But Alquist discovers two humanized Robots, a young man and young woman, who have a bit of Adam and Eve in them, and the audience perceives that mankind is about to start afresh.

Nature has won out, after all.
